
The prom

Prom night opens up all at once.
Wow... this is amazing.
Okay, yeah. This is officially huge.
Ready to make an entrance?
Only if you dont trip in first ten seconds.
And suddenly, it feels like the whole room sees them.
Too late. Were committed now.
Good. Lets own it.

The music does the rest.
Come on, dont freeze on me now.
Im not freezing. Im calibrating.
Behold. Calibrated.
That is so much worse I expected.
Then the nerves break.
Okay, no, keep doing that. Thats Thats hilarious.
Oh, now youre showing off.
You started it.

A few songs later, they're not just at prom.
They're in it now.
I think we just survived our grand debut.
Survived? We crushed it.
And with every step back into the lights, they feel it.
One more song?
Make it our song.

By now, the room feels different.
Why does this suddenly feel like the best night ever?
Because it is.
Not crowned. Not announced. But somehow, unmistakably, they are the center of the night.

The prom

Vanessa and Josh arrive at prom and step into a bright, buzzing ballroom full of music, decorations, and excited classmates. Their nervous entrance quickly turns into a playful, high-energy dance as Josh's goofy confidence gets Vanessa laughing. Soon they relax completely, dancing together with growing ease and joy. By the end of the sequence, they haven't been officially singled out, but the energy of the room makes them feel like the couple everyone is watching.
